

ABSTRACT

An improved manually operated trigger sprayer includes an ergonomic trigger having an hourglass exterior finger gripping surface that can significantly reduce or eliminate the fatigue associate with prolonged use of trigger sprayers. The trigger can include gripping elements made of elastomeric material for improved security. The dimensions are such that the consumer can use two or three fingers to operate the trigger.